NOTE FOR: Mr. Blake

SUBJECT : Recreational Movies for Vietnam

Per your request, I have attached a list of "Round Robin" films and "Tangerine" TV films which have been received so far in 1974 by AF Division for recreational use by their field stations. The Round Robin films are available from CRS at no cost. The Tangerine films cost AF $8,500 per annum.

Based on discussions with [] and others with a firsthand knowledge of the Saigon problem as regards films, it appears that the problem is simply that:

STAT

- a. COS/Saigon wants first-run films as opposed to the older movies available from CRS; and
- b. EA Division is unwilling to budget the $70,000 to $90,000 required to obtain such current films.

Both Brad and Dave contend that this is not really a problem with anyone except Mr. Polgar who is allegedly a movie buff and is thus personally interested in this whole subject. I also am advised that this problem has been worked on for a good many months with all of the people involved ^{can} including that to accomplish Mr. Polgar's goals would require significant amounts of money which, to date, EA Division has been unwilling to provide.

My own opinion is that the material that AF is getting for its minimal expenditure represents pretty interesting viewing even if it is somewhat dated.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Acting Deputy Director for Administration

SUBJECT : Availability of Army Air Force Motion
Picture Service Films to the Vietnam
Station

REFERENCE : Undated Memo for D/L fr EO-DD/M&S, subj:
Films for Vietnam

1. This memorandum is for your information only.
2. Preliminary research into the problem of obtaining motion picture service films for the Vietnam Station from the Army Air Force Motion Picture Service (AAFMPs) produced the following information:

a. The U.S. Embassy in Saigon attempted to gain access to the AAFMPs circuit in March of 1973. Mr. Robert Quick, then Chief of AAFMPs, advised the State Department that they should state the number of military personnel and their location in a formal request to Camp Drake, Tokyo, the regional office of AAFMPs. The East Asia (EA) Bureau decided not to follow that course of action. The U.S. Embassy, Saigon, request went unanswered. Mr. Robert Tegethoff, when queried the week of 19 August 1974 on the State Department's willingness to make a joint approach to AAFMPs, was unable to generate interest in such an effort.

b. Supply Division, Office of Logistics (OL/SD), made informal inquiries on behalf of EA Division in July of 1973 through our Joint Chiefs of Staff focal point, Col. Austin Lemon, U.S. Air Force. He was advised by Mr. Quick that AAFMPs policy precluded distribution of films to non-Department of Defense (DOD) agencies.

STAT

3. On 26 August 1974, Messrs. [redacted] OL/SD, together with Col. Lemon, visited Mr. H. L. Tabor, the current Chief of AAFMPS. After general introductory remarks, [redacted] presented the Agency position in support of gaining access to the AAFMPS film circuit through State Department channels. Mr. Tabor then made a definitive statement on the AAFMPS position on access by non-DOD elements, particularly the State Department. The film industry has for some time been attempting to negotiate a contract with State Department. To date, their efforts have not been successful. Mr. Tabor considers the existing contracts between the film industry and AAFMPS extremely favorable and will do nothing to jeopardize his relations with the industry. Under the circumstances, Mr. Tabor feels he has no recourse but to follow to the letter his board of directors' instructions which restrict distribution of films to bona fide Army and Air Force units.

STAT

4. If the State Department contracts with the industry, suitable arrangements could be made to service provincial requirements in South Vietnam. Such a program would undoubtedly call for the Agency to pay a proportionate share of the costs incurred by the State Department in providing the service.

5. Mr. Tabor closed the meeting with a promise to provide the name of the principal State Department representative to the industry contract negotiations. He will also keep Col. Lemon informed of any further developments which could affect the situation.

Mike:

1. At the special DD/M&S meeting of 29 July 1974, the ADD/M&S stated that the Office of Logistics should get together with State Department and try to effect a joint effort on having films remain in Vietnam an additional four weeks, so they can be shown in the provinces. This was in response to Tom Polgar's request.

2. I was asked to follow up on these various items, and would appreciate a reading on this at some reasonable time.
